FRIDAY MORNING, JANUARY 13, 1860. RAILROAD ENTERPRISE IN VIRGINIA. "The trains of the Alexandria, Loudoun

her, will be able to run within seven miles of Leesburg, the old County Town of Lou-The above announcement, by letter from Alexandria, has prompted us to renew the pleasant reminiscences of a late trip over the fice, in the city of Alexandria, Va., a valuable "A. L. and H. R. R.," now constructing TRACT of LAND and FISHERY, situate in the under the Presidency of Lewis McKenzie Esquire.

Chancing to be in Alexandria early in November, we accepted the invitation of the President to accompany a committee of the directors of the company, representatives of and eighteen months, with interest from the day of sale, the purchaser giving bond, with good perseveral citizens of Alexandria, to the present terminus of the road, which was projected to connect the coal-fields of Hampshire County; with the sea-port, (Alexandria,) about 180 miles distant.

On the morning of November 9th, we met the excursionists at the depot in Alexandria -a substantial brick structure-and the pioneer passenger-car having failed to reach the depot at the appointed hour, (8 o'clock) though within sight, moving its slow length along Fairfax street,—the always punctual President commended to us to the "tenderborne" mercies of a platform car, fitted for our benefit, and we were soon on our way out of town, our view of Washington and the shores of the Potomac being temporarily obseured by a heavy fog and the smoke from our locomotive, driven down upon us by an easterly wind. But the sun soon dissipated the clouds-the smoke kindly shifted for our convenience,-and we were afforded delightful views of every variety of hill and dale, as we sped through lands whose redale, as we sped through lands whose redemption seemed augured by the advancing rails, till the whistle announced our arrival at Vienna-(the first station, 15 miles from Alexandria)-which has already assumed the characteristics of a rising village, with its public house, well stocked store, agricultural foundry, and numerous dwelling houses scattered on either side of the road. Here we stopped for a stroll about the depot grounds and then, once more over the road to Broad Run, 27 miles from Alexandria, and 13 from Leesburg, to which point the official committee proceeded in carriages which were in waiting for them, while we of the laity remained "on board," discussing the merits of the surrouding country, the then recent attempt at insurrection, and some particular Autumn garb appear more beautiful than on that sunny afternoon. It was a day to be remembered; and as we wended our way through the almost classic streets of the town, the passengers bearing from the cars their leafy trophies of a day in the woods, even the collector of Uncle Sam's revenues might have been mistaken for a gleaner of Nature.

The natural wealth of the lands of Virginia. is proverbial. They need but the impulse of means of transportation to restore them to fruitfulness; and we cannot doubt but that the energy and perseverance evinced by the DAY, THE SECOND DAY OF MARCH, 1860, President of the A. L. & H. R. R. Co., while entailing great cares and anxieties upon him, must redound to the benefit of his native lying, and being in Georgetown, D. C., or so State and his own reputation. The lands | many thereof, as may be necessary to satisfy the on either side of this road cannot fail to contribute to its income. Indeed, there seems to be a fair prospect for ample remuneration, long before reaching the extreme terminus, where the coal-fields will afford an inexhaustible source of revenue.

I have felt that even this meagre sketch of a day on a Virginia railroad would prove more worthy of notice than the eternal negro, or John Brown; and in this view venture Do. do. do. do. do. 1857 to submit it to your readers .- N. Y. Jour. of Do. do. do. do. do., ex-

ARMING THE STATE. In the Virginia Senate, last Saturday, the following report was presented and ordered to be printed. The undersigned, under the instructions of the Joint Committee on Military Affairs of the Senate and House of Delegates, have the honor to submit the following report: 1. A corps of five thousand men, organized into five regiments of 12 companies each, with 80 men rank and file to each company, might be constituted as follows:

Thirty companies of Infantry, twenty compa nies of Riflemen, five companies of Cavalry, five Batteries of Artillery, of six pieces each :

30 Companies of Infantry, armed with Minnie muskets, 2,400 muskets at $13.65..... 20 Companies of Riflemen, armed with Minnie Rifles, 1600 Rifles at $16.68 ... 20 688

5 Companies of Cavalry, armed with Revolver pistols, 400 at $21 Aud 400 Cavalry Sabres at $5. 5 Batteries of Artillery would require 18 gun carriages and caisons complete to mount 18 field pieces now owned by the State at $400 each 18 Navy Howitzers at $500 4,800 Cartridge Boxes, Pouches, and Belts at $2 .. 400 Pistol Belts, at $1.25. 400 Artillery Sabres, at $5. 2 000 400 Revolver Pistols for Artillery at $21 8 400 400 Dragoon Saddles, &c., at $35 14 000 200 Sibly tents, at $38..... 7 600 25 000

For a corps of 10,000, or for one of 15,000 ere a order of the Circuit Court of Cabell County, men, less Artillery would be required, and more rendered at the last August term, in the case of Infantry and Rifeman, but the proportionate cost for purchasing the arms, &c., would be about the same, viz: $148,342 for every 5,000 men. The Sophia M. Peyton, against the heirs of Thomas Dundas, deceased, the undersigned, will, on the above prices are fixed at the government charge of the Court House of Alexandria County, Va. for the Minnie musket and Minnie rifle, but it is sell at public auction, to the highest bidder, all doubted whether these arms can be purchased at that LOT OF LAND, in the city of Alexandria, this price. It is recommended that a proper Comoccupied by what was formerly known as the mission be appointed by the proper authority, to Washington Tavern, new known as the MARSHALL HOUSE, together with the Stadecide what arms should be purchased, should it be decided to purchase any. ble lot thereto belonging, with their appurtenan-3.
